IMPORTANT AIR BASES TAKEN BY THE ALLIES

Important air bases in Sicily have been taken by the Allies in the past 24 hours.

Axis resistance is growing stronger and more German troops are being thrown into the battle. The Italians are surrendering.

The battle for Sicily is a dull conflict and not expected to be of great interest. Italian prisoners have mounted to about 15,000.

Decisive action was expected soon in New Guiena.

The Navy department announced that Kiska has been isolated and may be expected to be reduced within a short time.

The battle on the Russian front was diminishing with the Germans having failed to make their objective.

In Sicily it was said that reinforcements have been brought up for the decisive action expected within the next few weeks unless indications fortell certain collaspe of the enemy, bring about his defeat.

On Guadalcanal

PVT. G. W. BARR, JR.

Fighting the Japs is serious business and little time can be had between shots as evidenced by a letter from Pvt. G. W. Barr, Jr., to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Barr, Sr.

Pvt. Barr started a letter to his parents and three days were required to finish it. Writing from a fox hole somewhere on Guadalcanal he was interrupted by the Japs. Three times he laid down the pen to take up his rifle. Finally the letter was finished and has been received in Cameron.

Pvt. Barr has just turned 21. He enlisted in 1939, when he was 17 years old. He reported for duty at Fort Sam Houston and was sent to San Francisco and from there to Guadalcanal.

The army took over from the Marines and his was among the first units to go in. He has been in actual combat since January of this year. He was born near Killeen and attended school there.

G. W. Barr, Sr., the father, is manager of the Bell Salvage Company in Cameron.

Douglas Owings Now With Marines Writes About Battle Life

Here is a letter from Douglas M. Owings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Owings, Sr., of Cameron. It was written from a fox hole somewhere in the South Pacific battle area, possibly Guadalcanal.

Owings, youngest son of the family, in another letter to a friend a few days ago, was writing from a fox hole with his paper on his knee. He finished the letter hurriedly he said because the Japs were coming to attack him. The letter is to Chas. M. Hicks.

"I bet you are genuinely surprised to be getting this. I suppose you wont remembed me. Well I believe you were my teacher in Biology and Chemistry. Gee Prof. I miss dear old Cameron and Yoe High.

"I guess you know I am really under fire. I finally found out those Japs are playing for keeps. A short time ago I witnessed one of the largest aerial "dog fights" in this war. I can assure you the fighter pilots of our group really splattered them. All I can say is the ratio was 14 to 1. That is the truth. During the battle Karangii dive bombers tried to bomb us. They dropped them in vacant jungles. A zero pilot came down starfing the strip (landing of our ground defense crew blew H— out of him. He became a good Jap. Boy he was cold meat. I really am proud to be a marine. Our outfit really is on the beam. Gee, I hope those war bonds get us more of those P-40's Corsairs built by Vaught. They really are the best plane the marines have. Say Prof. mail sometimes don t get through. If you should receive this tell my mother I send my love. Do this and I will greatly appreciate it very much. Well if you can't figure out what I have said it is just because I am "fox hole" happy.

P. S. Murmur a prayer for my buddies who have gone west. "Semper Fedlio."

Cpl. Alfred Leonard Ary, of Goodfellow and Miss Ruby Nichols of San Angelo, were united in wedlock Saturday evening, July 17th at 9:30 o'clock at the home of Judge and Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp, the Judge reading the ceremony.

Mrs. Gene Smith is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Bona Bean of Longview and Mrs. Sam Bean of Gladewater, she will return to the city on August 5th.

GRASS FIRES MENACE TO LIFE AND PROPERTY

Grass fires in the past few days have caused a number of alarms and firemen have responded as they always do.

While no official warning has been issued it is important that people exercise care. Dry grass should not be set afire unless done so under supervision of the Fire Department.

Many people thoughtlessly put a match to vacant lots. Little do they know how much damage can be caused by such an act. They are innocent and do not seem to know better.

If your lawn or your vacant lots or vacant property adjoining you are grown up and the grass is tall and crisp, don't be tempted to burn it for the thrill of the crackle and the rapid spread of flame, for in doing so you are apt to cause great property damage or the life of a volunteer firemen responding to the alarm.

FOOD ARSENAL YIELDS 100 CANS DAY HERE

Canning Project, under the supervison of Miss Abbia Pierce, has turned out an average of more than 100 cans of food per day. This included During the past week the Cameron various foods, such as tomatoes, grape juice, hominy, pork and beans and peas.

Canning of meats, chicken and rabbits has been scheduled for the week beginning July 19.

Miss Pierce reports that approximately 100 women in Milam county who have never canned before have learned to do their own canning and use the equipment of the Canning Center. This project has been a great help to people who do not have canning facilities in their own homes.

A recent survey made by telephone shows that less than one per cent of the food canned has been lost, which is a good record in view of the fact that nearly 10,000 cans of food have be put up during the past 45 days.

Miss Pierce is anxious for more women to come to the Canning Center and says the place is comparatively cool. A bottle capper and fruit juicer have been added to the equipment during the past week.

A display of the products canned may be seen in the Texas Power & Light Company window.

GEO. AVERY IS BURIED IN CITY WEDNESDAY

George Avery, aged about 87 years, oldest negro resident of Cameron and from a slave family, was buried Wednesday, July 7, 1943.

Avery died at his home in Cameron on Monday. The funeral was delayed while a son, Will Avery, could reach the city from Detroit.

Avery had been a prominent figure in the life of the negro population in Cameron and well known in business circles among all peoples. Some 20 years ago he conducted a transfer business and in that business continued until the railroads established their own delivery systems.

As a small boy Avery came to Texas from Alabama. His father and mother were slaves and came to Cameron with the late Hilry Stedman, grandfather of Hilry H. Stedman, prominent Cameron business man.

Avery had been in declining health for years, due to advanced age. For the first time in more than a quarter century he was unable to take part in the celebration on June 19th, the occasion of the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863 by Abriham Lincoln, President of the United States. Under the terms of this proclamation his family was freed from what the northern states and Washington said was a brutal system of human slavery.

Avery died as he had lived, a splendid example of a man who despite handicaps, approximated the good qualities of a citizen in his life and earned the tribute paid him by Judge Graham Gillis who spoke on invitation of the family from among a large number of white citizens who attended the funeral, among whom was Hilry H. Stedman whose family brought young Avery to Texas from Alabama.

Mrs. Ella Dobbins of Waco, spent the week end here with relatives and has returned home.

LEAFLETS SCATTERED OVER ROME TODAY

One fifth of Sicily is now in Allied hands and all was going well with the invasion. Fighting was real and earnest as the Doosevelt-Churchill appeal to the Italian people brought no response.

Bombing planes were over Rome scattering leaflets in the political war being waged against Italy but fighting was fierce in Sicily where the Americans under General George Patton have cut a path through the mountains and the British 8th Army under Montgomery is within a few miles of Catania.

The Axis radio said a vast new battle was shaping up on the plains near Catania.

While enemy resistance was strong everywhere the Axis lines have been broken.

In air battles Saturday over the theatre of operations we lost 4 planes while the Axis had 13 shot down.

While the battle in Sicily was going strongly in favor of the Allies the Russians were beating the Germans. Red artillery was shelling the town of Orel and the Russians are within 6 miles of the city.

The German offensive is said to have failed and now the Reds are on the march. The Russian action was said to herald a possible offensive for 1500 miles on the long front.

Fascist Italy was showing some sign of cracking up under the propaganda wave although a Swiss report said that the only re-action from the leaders was that "if you expect to defeat Italy you must do so with guns." Leaflets however were said making some headway. Facist newspapers were criticising the Germans for abandoning Italy and the military leadership was lambasted.

The Washington front was quiet.

HITLER PHONES FOR RESERVATION

Hitler called up the devil,
On the telephone one day.
The girl at central listened
To all they had to say.
"Hello" ('twas Hitler speaking.)
Is old man Satan home?"
Just tell him it's the dictator
Who wants him on the phone."

The devil said, "Hello Dolf."
And Hitler said "How are you."
I'm running hell on earth
So tell me what to do."
"What can I do" the devil said,
Dear old pal-o-mine."
"You don't need any help from me,
You are doing mighty fine."

'Yes, I was doing fairly well
Until some time ago
When a man called Uncle Sam
Told me to go slow.
He said to me "Dear Hitler,
We don't want to be unkind,
But you've raised hell enough
So you'd better change your mind."

I thought his lend lease was bluff,
He'd never get through
But soon he put me on the spot
When he told me what to do
So that's why I called you, Satan,
I need advice from you;
For I know you can tell me
Exactly what to do."

Satan said: "Dear partner there is
Not much left to tell;
For Uncle Sam will make it
Hotter than I can here in hell.
I have been a real old devil,
But not half as mean as you.
So the minute you get down here
The job is yours to do.

I'll be ready for your coming
And 'll keep the fires all bright;
And I'll get your room all ready
As soon as Sam begins to fight.
For I know your days are numbered
And there's nothing left to tell
Hang up you phone, put on your hat
And come on down to hell."

LEAFLETS LET LOOSE ON ITALIANS FRIDAY

Italy was brutally punished Friday by gently falling leaflets carrying a message from President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

A joint appeal to the Italian people was made by the President and Prime Minister. They want the Italians to quit fighting for Hitler and Mussolini.

Recently the President made an appeal to the Italian people. No results were obtained. Now the Prime Minister joined in the appeal and news commentators said this was the big news of the day.

A thousand bombers over Rome with something besides leaflets might have been better politics in the long run. Italy declared war on the United States in December 1941. Now we send the Italian people an ultimatum.

Reports from the fighting on the Sicilian front were obscure.

Reports from the Washington front said the President had struck a new blow. He has set up another agency by taking away some of the agencies of Vice President Wallace and Jesse Jones.

Pasteurization of Cream Preserves Butter Flavor

Many farm people, making butter for home use for the first time in many years, inquire for information about how to keep butter from developing a rancid flavor. According to Forrest C. Button, professor of dairy manufactures, the answer to this question is pasteurization of the cream.

"The heat of pasteurization makes inactive the raw cream enzyme, which causes deterioration of the fat," Professor Button explains. "Pasteurization is a simple procedure: Just put the cream into a can or pail; place this container in a large kettle, boiler or other suitable container partly filled with water; place this on the stove and bring the cream to a temperature of 145 to 150 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes. A shorter method is to heat the cream to 165 to 170 degrees for 10 or 15 minutes, but the 30-minute method is the standard procedure. The cream should be stirred while being heated to facilitate heating."

When the pasteurization process is completed, Professor Button says that the cream should be cooled to 50 degrees Fahrenheit or lower and held at this temperature for at least three hours before churning in order to insure firm butter granules.

"For the sake of convenience," he says, "the cream may be held cold overnight. But if the butter is to be churned as soon after the three-hour period as possible, it may be cooled quickly by stirring it and running cold water into the kettle or by setting the cream can into the milk cooling tank which is available on most dairy farms. The desirability of using a dairy thermometer in heating and cooling the cream is obvious."

Layer of Ashes and Air From Pit Preserve Grates

Grates are put into furnaces for two purposes—to hold the fuel bed and to admit air.

Furnace manufacturers make these grates out of very high-grade alloyed iron and as heavy as possible, to prevent their warping and burning. In spite of this, many sets of grates are replaced each year. In every case this is the result of abuse by improper firing.

The remedy is simple: Keep a layer of ashes on top of the grates and keep the ash-pit clean. The ashes on the grates prevent their contact with the hot coals. The air flowing through the grates helps to keep them from becoming overheated. Scientific tests have shown that loose ashes have very little resistance to air flow. Therefore, four to six inches of ashes on the grates will not cut the draft appreciably.

Do not shake the grates violently and never dump the grates until you want to clean the furnace out for the summer. A full ash-pit, particularly when the ashes are in contact with the grates, prevents the proper circulation of air and causes the grates to become overheated.

English Regency

English Regency covered that period from 1811 to 1820, when George IV acted as regent for the insane George III. The Regency styles grew out of those we familiarly know as Georgian but they were strongly influenced by the Empire styles of France, reflecting the revival of interest in Roman, Egyptian and Greek architecture and design. Hence its chairs are rather robust versions of Directoire and Empire chairs, the cupboards and cabinets often have metal grills in place of glass in the doors. The most familiar woods were mahogany and rosewood, while black lacquered finish lined with gold was also popular.

Restore Old Shrubs

Any old shrubs can be rejuvenated. In the case of hedges, it is best to cut them within a few inches of the ground in the early spring before the new growth starts. Then as the hedge grows up, shear it about every six inches to make it bushy and compact. If they are individual shrubs, they can be rejuvenated by removing a third of the oldest wood each year, cutting it off to the ground. As the new suckers come up, it is well to pinch off the tips, half an inch or so, each time they have grown a foot. This will develop more side branches and prevent the long slender unbranched shoots that you will get otherwise.

Governors Up in Air

Five governors gained an insight to aerial warfare through service during World War I in the army or navy air forces. Governors Spessard Holland of Florida, Dwight Green of Illinois, Sumner Sewall of Maine and Herbert B. Maw of Utah were army fliers; Gov. Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas enlisted in the naval reserve flying force in 1918, serving four years. Governor Holland brought down two enemy planes, was shot down once himself, and received the Distinguished Service Cross.

Complex Stomachs

Complex stomachs enable cattle, sheep and other ruminants to get all their protein needs from the commoner cereal and legume feeds. Animals with simple stomachs, such as hogs and chickens, cannot use any but the high quality protein feedstuffs, and in addition must have a certain minimum amount of animal protein feed.

ENNA, RAIL CENTER TAKEN BY AMERICANS

One half Sicily Wednesday was in the hands of United Nations forces.

Early Wednesday the headquarters of General Eisenhower announced that American and Canadian forces pressing forward to the center of Sicily had taken Enna.

The victory places American troops in command of key railroad and highway systems of the island. The sun has begun to set on Fascist control in Sicily.

The British 8th Army under General Montgomery which attacked the island on July 10th was pressing forward to the capture of Catania. The fall of the city was expected momentairily. A swiftly moving column has bi-passed the city and is pushing to cut off any possible attempt to escape by the enemy either across the channel to the boot or to the main land north.

Italians were complaining bitterly that the Germans are following their familiar tactics of North Africa battle. When the going gets tough the Germans seize all transportation facilities and leave the Italians to take the consequences. The Italians are surrendering in ever increasing numbers. It was estimated that some 50,000 Axis prisoners are now in allied hands from the Sicilian invasion.

An Italian radio broadcast early today said that Rome had passed through an hour of air raid alarm and that planes came over and dropped bombs. This report was not confirmed by any Allied source. It was disclosed on Tuesday that great damage had been done to military and to semi-military objectives in the Italian capital, in the raid on Sunday.

One report said Hitler and Mussolini were meeting in Northern Italy while the raid was in progress. Another report said El Duce was in an air raid shelter in Rome, built especially for him.

Mitchell and Harauder bombers of the United States Army air force carried out heavy raids on Sardinia and Southern Italy early Wednesday.

A London report said that Joseph Stalin was at the front near Orel directing the fight. The Red army was still inflicting heavy losses on the Germans and are nearing Orel. One report said that a Russian army had already penetrated 5 miles beyond the city.

The Japanese lost a cruiser and two destroyers out of a convoy attempting to reinforce Munda. American bombers accounted for enemy losses.

A report as yet without confirmation said that British Commandos had attacked the mainland of Italy Tuesday night but were driven off.

Hitler and Mussolini met at Brenner Pass for the first time in 1943. It was observed Wednesday by a commentator that following this meeting Hitler went to Rome and later reviewed the Italian navy. This, Der Fuerhrer will never do again.

Comedy Tops Bill At Cameron Theatre Wednesday, July 21

Henry Aldrich is a changed man. He's got glamour! At least, that's the latest story making the rounds about incorrigible Henry whose newest exploits, "Henry Aldrich Gets Glamour," will next Wednesday be presented by Paramount at the Cameron Theatre.

Henry, in the ingratiating person of Jimmy Lydon, has some remarkable things happening to him in his new picture, according to advance accounts, and all of them exteremely funny to everyone but him. In this instance, Henry, much to his own amazement, wins a trip to Hollywood and a date with the glamorous, saronged star, Hilary Dane (Frances Gifford.)

As a result, Henry who had been anathema to all the girls at Centerville High except Phyllis (Diana Lynn,) becomes a glamorous wolf, stalked by every sorority sister. Unfortunately for Henry, his romantic prowess proves bad for his father's political career and he is forced to figure out a way to back out of his enviable position as the Sheik of Centerville. To accomplish this Henry and his pal, Dizzy (Charles Smith,) work through a maze of hilarious complications.

Mrs. Harry Greenless and daughter have returned home from the Newton Memorial Hospital.

GERMANS ARE FIGHTING IN PLAINS OF CATANIA

The Italian army in Sicily is surrendering piece meal and at noon more than 40,000 Axis prisoners had been counted in the ten days of fighting following the invasion.

In a statement at noon from General Eisenhower's headquarters in North Africa, a spokesman said that the progress of the American army in Sicily is being aided by the willing surrender of the Italians.

The Italians are surrendering by companies and by regiments and thus far two entire divisions have been taken.

Early Tuesday morning the Commander in Chief of the Italian armies in Sicily sent a message to the King of Italy telling the Italian Monarch he could not hold out indefinitely.

The American army under General George Patton was within 60 miles of Paleramo, the capital of Sicily.

The British 8th Army under General Montgomery had sent a column north and east to cut off any atempted retreat of Axis forces to the mainland of Italy across the 2 mile channel between Sicily and The Boot.

One third of the entire surface of Sicily is now in Allied hands.

The Axis propagandists were working over time to stir up the Catholics over the bombing of Rome. The Berlin radio said that the Pope had sent messages of protest to both Winston Churchill and to President Roosevelt.

Italian broadcasts said that great damage had been doen to works of art and to religious property.

It was revealed that Maj. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle had led the raid on Rome. He also led the raid on Tokyo. We lost 5 planes in the raid and 500 bombers were in the attack.

The Germans broadcast news of an attempted landing of Russian forces on a peninusula in the Barents sea which is off the coast of Norway. There was no confirmation from Red sources.

At Orel the Red army had battered its way to within 12 miles of the city.

Amiral Horne of the United States Navy, in Washington, early Tuesday said the navy is preparing for a war to last through 1949 against Japan.

The big problem of military leaders is to combat-optimism. There will be no collapse of the German armies such as occured in 1918. This war must be fought to the bitter end.

A news dispatch at noon, without confirmation from allied sources, said the Pope was grieved and had cancelled all audiences due to the danger of crowding. He inspected the damage done by the Americans in the first air raid on Rome.

Whether Rome is to be blasted thoroughly will depend on the progress of the war within the next few days and the resistance of the Italians.

You can help SAVE FOOD

The more food that goes into our garbage cans, the more shortage there will be in our own country, and the less we can send to our allies. You can save food through careful planning and buying, proper cooking, well-balanced servings and proper storage.

Your gas refrigerator provides a steady, constant cold. There's no starting and stopping. It operates continuously without moving parts. It is a sure, easy way to protect foods. Use it to best advantage.

LET YOUR GAS REFRIGERATOR HELP YOU SAVE FOOD

1. KEEP PERISHABLES COLD

Vitamins and other nutritive elements in most food are lost when not protected from air and warmth. By storing foods in your Gas Refrigerator between the time they're bought and prepared for serving, you are sure to retain their full healthful value.

2. STORE FOODS CAREFULLY

To avoid waste, keep meats in your Gas Refrigerator either uncovered or lightly covered with wax paper. Wash and remove wilted leaves of green vegetables before placing in vegetable fresheners. Bring warm foods to room temperature before storing.

3. SAVE VEGETABLE JUICES

The juices left after cooking carrots, spinach, celery, onions, etc., are rich in health-building minerals and vitamins. Save this liquid by straining and keeping safe and cool in your Gas Refrigerator. Serve as a vegetable cocktail, or used for creamed soups, sauces or gravies.

4. USE LEFTOVERS FOR NEW DISHES. Don't throw away food left over from meals. Transfer it to clean, covered containers and store in your Gas Refrigerator, until you're ready to use. There are many tasty dishes you can prepare from leftovers—for example, meat loaf, casseroles, sandwich fillings, jellied salads.

STORE FOOD PROPERLY

Who are non-essential travelers?

You are the judge of whether or not your trip is essential—and your judgment is what our government is relying upon.

Please consider these points when you think of traveling on the railroads this summer and for the duration:

1. Your trip may take a Pullman berth or chair car seat needed by men in uniform traveling under orders.
2. Your trip may delay war workers, not in uniform, in reaching their vital jobs.
3. Your trip may deprive men and women in the service of a furlough trip to visit their homefolks.

If you do take a trip, plan for it in advance, travel light, consider taking a box lunch to avoid delayed meals in the diners, and make up your mind to put up with certain inconveniences and crowded conditions.

WHAT ABOUT VACATION TRAVEL?

Vacations should be spread out over the year, not confined to summer months.

A vacation trip should be confined to one round trip only, starting and returning on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday.

Travel in chair cars whenever possible, and please carry only one piece of luggage.

Consult your Santa Fe Agent about your travel plans. You'll find his friendly advice helpful.

Have a Coca-Cola = Howdy, Neighbor, 'round the world

... or how to make friends at home or abroad

When the American soldier overseas meets up with Coca-Cola, it's like meeting an old pal. Have a "Coke", says he to a stranger, and in three words he has made a new buddy. From Minneapolis to Melbourne, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the mark of the good neighbor, the high-sign of the friendly-minded—has spread from Atlanta to the Seven Seas.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

War Brings Many Changes In Industry Among Nations

The war has brought about a number of important changes in the national economies of the United States and other countries, says the Alexander Hamilton institute. The United States has become economically more self-sufficient than ever before. Various basic raw materials, which were previously imported, are now being produced domestically. It is probable that synthetic rubber is here to stay and that the importation of tin in the post-war period will be less of a necessity than it has been in the past. In addition, a number of industrial products previously imported are now being produced in the United States.

The industrialization of Canada, Australia, the Argentine and Brazil has progressed at a rapid rate. These countries will be much less dependent on the importation of many of the manufactured goods which they have imported in the past. In view of these developments, the opinion has often been expressed that the United States will be much less dependent on the rest of the world than it was before the present conflict. Furthermore, it is held that the industrialization of the Western hemisphere and the increased output of agricultural products in Europe will lead to a material decline in the volume and value of international trade in general.

There are reasons to believe, however, that these conclusions will not prove to be correct. Past experience has shown that industrialization does not lead to a decline but to an increase in international trade. The development of industries has invariably caused an increase in the standard of living of the people. This, in turn, has created demands for commodities which did not exist before. While industrialization has brought about a change in the type of commodities traded, it has caused an increase in the total volume of exports and imports. This was the case in Germany, Japan and, recently, in Canada. The industrialization of these countries not only did not cause a decline in their international trade, but, on the contrary, increased it. It may be expected that this will occur in the future.

'Shakers' Houses and Goods Made to Last 1,000 Years

Mother Ann, the leader of the Shakers sect that attained its peak between 1840 and 1860, admonished her followers to "Do all your work as though you had a thousand years to live and as you would if you knew you must die tomorrow."

They designed and built their houses and furniture, workshops and equipment, barns and outbuildings, with the teachings of Mother Ann in mind. Perfection was sought in all things, down to the slightest detail. Every barn, workroom, meeting-house and dormitory was planned for efficiency and easy, co-operative use.

Every object was made with extraordinary and loving care. The Shaker furniture, with its well-balanced proportions, light-colored stain and functionalism, appears to have been made for the "thousand years of holiness."

The Shakers were at times a persecuted sect, largely because of the celibacy and the communism that were part of their religion.

Gas Masks for Animals

New type gas masks for horses and mules are now being issued to all army units that employ these animals in combat areas. The masks, developed by the chemical warfare service, are of two types, for pack and draft animals and cavalry horses. The new models work much like the human masks, and consist of close-fitting muzzle pieces connected by flexible hose to canisters. The canisters are filled with air-purifying material. The new equine masks provide enough air for the animal to walk, trot, or gallop in comfort. They afford adequate protection against field concentration of known chemical agents.

Tile Must Be 'Chinked'

Tile must be laid to a uniform grade, carefully placed, joints covered with strips of building paper, sod, stubble or hay, carefully backfilled and the outlet protected with iron bars to exclude small animals. If the swampy spot to be drained is more than 50 feet wide, branches from the main tile line will be needed. Hillside seepage is corrected by a cut-off tile placed on the uphill side of the wet spot. The tile must be carefully located so that the line will lie in a channel cut into the impervious layer causing the seepage and yet allowing slope for good flow and sufficient depth for cultivation.

Quarters for Rabbits

Rabbit hutches, which may be built of scrap material, should be adapted to the requirements of two mature does. Outside measurements should be approximately 30 inches width, 20 inches height and 10 to 12 feet length. A V-shaped hay rack made of three-quarter inch poultry wire may be placed in the center to serve both compartments. A slide trough eight inches wide and one inch deep beneath the hay rack will hold grain and catch hay leaves. Self-cleaning type floors are best made with one by two inch slats, or with half inch mesh hardware cloth.

ROME IS HIT IN BOMBING

EXTENT OF DAMAGE NOT YET DETERMINED

Rome was bombed at 11:30 a. m. Sunday North African time it was announced in an early morning broadcast from Washington.

American airmen flying Mitchell and Marauder bombers, the army's B-25 and B-26 mediums, took off from African bases in daylight, it was revealed.

The African command of General Eisenhower announced the bombing mission exactly 13 minutes before the first explosive rained down from the skies on the so called Holy City.

All day Monday propagandists on the American radio were beating the Axis to the news with an apologetic coloring of the raid. It was said that the reason the bombing was announced ahead of the arrival over the city of the planes was to forestall re-action in the Catholic countries over what might be said of the attack.

From Rome came the statement that the amount of damage could not as yet be ascertained. There has been no official German comment on the attack.

First impressions gained are that considerable damage was done to military installations. One report said that war plants had been built close to shrine's of world interest and it was believed that damage may inevitably result to them, depending on the accuracy of the bombadiers aloft in the bombers.

Many of the Italian shells fired from anti-aircraft guns did not explode until they hit the ground.

The Herald expressed the belief that the Roman capital, for political reasons would not be bombed. In this view it was mistaken. It is yet to develop how sincere is the attack and whether it is to be followed up. Also it is thereby to be shown how much of the present attack was intended for propaganda to enforce surrender of the Italian people.

The bombing was carried out after weeks of training. The attack was called needle bombing. All objectives were known in advance. The raid was made in daylight so as to avoid as far as possible any damage to Catholic property and to places of world historic interest and irreplaceable buildings.

When Italian bombing planes were over Adis Abbaba, capital of Ethiopia world's oldest kingdom and the crown of King Solomon, there was no thought then in Rome of bombers over the Holy City. Therefore there was no protest either from religious leaders or Fascist state leaders. The tables have turned and we are a great deal nearer victory.

All was going well with the ground campaign in Sicily. At noon Monday American and British armies were in control of more than one third of the big island, slightly larger than the state of Massachusetts.

Fifteen transport planes, believed to be German, were shot down as they brought in reinforcements for the badly beaten Axis armies in Sicily. The American army under General George Patton had established the battle line somewhere in the midlands of Sicily while the British 8th Army was at the outskirts of Catania.

Piling up hugh losses on the Nazi the Red army continued to slug its way into the approaches of Orel, key German base.

Heavy toll of Jap ships were reported in a naval battle when the enemy sought to bring in supplies and reinforcements to their forces in the New Georgia group of the Solomons. In the past 3 days 77 Japanese planes have been shot down by the Americans.

General Douglas MacArthur, for the first time in this war, has planes with which to wage an equal war with the Japs. His army is not yet of sufficient size to warrant a general offensive.

Pvt. A. J. Schuhsler of Ellington Field, Houston and Mrs. Schuhsler the former Miss Virginia Smith, spent the week end here in the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. C. Smith, Sr. It was the occasion of a visit home of Joe Simmie Smith, Second Class Petty Officer, home on furlough from San Diego, Calif Chas. C. Smith, Jr., of Fort Worth, with the OPA and wife and daughter, Sandra, were also in the Smith home for the week end. Another guest was Miss Alecia Evans of Camp Hood.

You call it Bread . . . your ancestors would have called it Cake

Your daily bread is nutrition in one of its finest and most appetizing forms—and today it saves ration points. We Americans can be grateful that our country produces an abundance of this perfect 'staff of life'.

We can be grateful, too, to science for the greatly improved quality of our daily bread. It has been tremendously enriched. Its texture is finer, its appearance and flavor more inviting.

Did you ever wonder how many millions of pounds of yeast are required each year to leaven the nation's bread? Did you know that yeast must be absolutely fresh when it reaches the baker? Thanks to a network of specialized delivery services plus modern refrigeration, bakers in even remote parts of America get their yeast fresh and on time.

The Baker's Yeast Division of Anheuser-Busch supplies bakers with yeast for a large part of the nation's bread. Now nearly 15 percent of our entire output goes to the Army. This service to civilian bakers and our armed forces resulted from applying to food the knowledge gained from years of laboratory work in producing the world-famous Budweiser.

Summer Barracks for Hens Give Chicks Old Quarters

Summer barracks for the laying hens may enable the poultryman with early hatched winter chicks to house the early pullets when they start to lay and still keep the productive old hens. A temporary rough shelter for the old birds will protect them through the warm summer weather, and if they are moved from the laying house in late May or early June, there will not be much slack in production. This leaves the laying houses to the pullets that mature in summer and early fall.

The birds should be moved at night and handled carefully, and perhaps be given special feeding, such as wet mash, to make sure their laying is not disturbed. The open summer quarters may actually be more comfortable for the birds in hot weather than the winter laying house.

A barracks house should be inexpensive, designed mainly as a roosting place, and as protection from storms and hot sun. The roof may be a frame of poles covered with slabs, straw, hay or canvas, or boards covered with roofing paper. A tool shed or some other out-building may sometimes be used as a barracks for the summer. The building needs no permanent floor. Nests, roosts, and water should be provided, as in the laying house. Birds in summer-laying barracks should have free range. This enables them to get plenty of sunshine for vitamin D, and also to get part of their feed from pasture, to reduce ration costs and also the demand for some scarce feeds.

Electronic Tubes Speed Welding in U. S. Warplanes

American warplanes can now be sewn together, at speeds as fast as 1,800 welding "stitches" a minute, with the aid of electronic tubes much like those in an ordinary radio set.

Peak production in airplane plants depends upon resistance welding, a speedy new process that stitches metal together just as an electric sewing machine runs down a seam.

This fast method of fabricating aluminum and stainless steel for plants depends upon precise control—and that is now being supplied by electronic tubes that have no moving parts to get out of order. Some of these tubes act as switches, jumping into action in one 2,500th of a second to start the weld. Previous methods of starting the weld were many times slower than this.

Other tubes measure out electric power in exact doses to make each stitch uniformly strong.

Crete Still Primitive

Bombing of airfields on Axis-held Crete marks the Mediterranean island as a key position in United Nations' strategy. Situated at the entrance of the Aegean sea, it is only 80 miles off the Greek coast, and less than 200 miles from Africa. Eastward 120 miles are Italy's Dodecanese Islands.

Aviation is an old story to the Cretans. They can claim its imaginative beginnings by reason of the exploits of its mythical fliers Daedalus and Icarus. For centuries the Cretans thought of air power as the Aegean winds powered the mills that ground their grain. In one mountain pass they set up 30 windmills to harness the mighty currents of air channeled by mountain walls. Modern aviation is represented by the Candia and Kastelli Pediada airdromes. Fortification of the island was improved under British occupancy.

Although archeologists have disclosed that Crete has had a rich past, it still is a primitive land. The island's farmers, using antiquated methods, do not grow enough wheat to meet their own needs. They produce some pottery, but only enough for their household requirements, for olive oil, and for making wine, soap and dyes. They retain the hospitality born of innless centuries, when the few travelers were dependent upon the hospitality of Cretan homes.

Vegetables Supply Nutrients

Reduced civilian supplies of milk and cheese mean that we shall need to eat other foods rich in calcium or lime. Cauliflower supplies calcium in season, but for a year-round supply of this food element, it has been suggested that calcium be added to bread.

As supplies of meat and cheese are limited, vegetable protein foods must take their place on the dinner table. Beans, peas, cereals, all contain some protein. Though citrus fruits furnish much vitamin C, along with foods like tomatoes and green vegetables, much of the citrus vitamin C is wasted by being thrown away in the peel.

Nylon Screens

An entirely new window screen, chemically made, and containing no metal, will be available to American householders after the war. It is made of nylon, now used exclusively for vital military purposes. Having all of the good characteristics of metal screening, and many qualities besides, it can be produced in any color, it will not stain the sills, it will not corrode, it requires no painting, and tests indicate it has extraordinary durability. Pencils or other sharp-pointed objects can be shoved through it without damage; the strength and elasticity of the strands is so great that they come back into place merely by rubbing them with one's fingers.

Cameron Girl is Now Deputy Commissioner For Labor in Texas

Women have replaced men in almost every type of work since the war began and now Dallas has a woman deputy state labor commissioner.

She is Miss Lurleen Hubert, whose job it is to see that women are not worked more than nine hours a day or fifty-four hours a week, except by special permits, oversee wrestling and boxing operations, keep watch over food costs, enforce moral, health and safety standards set up for factories where women are employed and enforce the child labor laws, as well as supervise private employment agencies.

Working out of her office on the third floor of the Records Building, Miss Hubert performs those duties in Dallas, Collin, Hunt, Lamar, Navarro, Rockwall, Grayson, Kaufman, Delta Cooke and Denton counties.

She was appointed to supervise this area by John D. Reed, State Labor Commissioner, whose Dallas office had been closed for the last three months after the previous deputy commissioner had resigned. Miss Hubert is not a newcomer to Dallas, having often visited her sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harris, both of whom were formerly Dallas County Commissioners. Harris, now a lieutenant in the Navy, also served in the Texas Legislature.

A native of Cameron, Miss Hubert moved to Dallas from Austin, where she was employed in the State Comptroller's Department—Dallas News.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenemore Hunter of San Antonio, spent the week end here with his aunt, Mrs. India Stidham. His Mother, Mrs. E. F. Hunter, returned with them Sunday afternoon after spending two weeks here with Mrs. Stidham.

To help you save "War Time" on long distance calls

Sometimes—on some calls over war-congested channels—the long distance operator finds it necessary to ask: "Please limit your call to 5 minutes. Others are waiting."

If your call is important and must go through, please follow these suggestions.

CALL BY NUMBER IF YOU CAN
It saves handling time on America's extra-busy long distance channels.

PLACE A CALL FOR "ANYONE"
at the given number—a station-to-station call—whenever possible. That means quicker handling, too.

JOT DOWN A PLAN OR OUTLINE of the points to be covered in your call.

BEGIN BY SAYING:
"I have three things to talk to you about." If you state the total of points to be covered, it puts you both in the frame of mind to avoid waste words. And it often prevents closing the call with some point overlooked.

You can say a lot in 5 minutes. Never mind discussing the weather—it's a military secret!

If you keep your long distance calls short these days, you not only save money but you help to make the peacetime telephone system do its wartime job.
